About Islamic Finance worldwide

The global Islamic finance industry has been expanding steadily, with assets exceeding $3 trillion as of 2025. This growth is driven by strong demand for Shariah-compliant financial products across regions like the Middle East, Southeast Asia, and Africa. Islamic finance is diversifying beyond traditional banking to include products like Sukuk (Islamic bonds), Takaful (insurance), and sustainable finance initiatives such as green Sukuk. The rise of Islamic FinTech is revolutionizing the sector, integrating digital wallets, online platforms, and blockchain technology to enhance efficiency. Governments are also enhancing regulatory frameworks to attract investment, while the ethical and risk-sharing principles of Islamic finance are appealing to a growing base of socially responsible investors.
