About the Training

This two-days specialized online training, “Sukuk and Islamic Capital Markets: Principles, Products, Structuring & Global Market Practices,” offers a practical introduction to the foundations, instruments and operations of Islamic capital markets. It examines Sukuk structures, the issuance lifecycle, legal and Shariah considerations, market participants and evolving global practices.

The program combines conceptual learning with examples and case-based discussion to help participants understand how Sukuk transactions are designed, evaluated, issued & managed in different market environments.

Objectives of the Training

- Explain the Shariah principles that underpin Islamic capital market products.
- Identify major Sukuk types, their contractual foundations and commercial applications.
- Understand the key stages of Sukuk structuring, issuance, listing and secondary-market activity.
- Recognize legal, regulatory, governance and risk considerations in Sukuk transactions.
- Examine selected global market practices and emerging developments.

Target Audience

- Banking, treasury, investment and asset-management professionals
- Sukuk issuers, arrangers, advisers, analysts and capital-market practitioners
- Regulators, policymakers and government or public-sector officials
- Legal, compliance, risk-management and Shariah advisory professionals
- Academics and other stakeholders interested in Sukuk and Islamic capital markets
